Provides a smooth and soft ride while implementing gender tailored technology in the men's and women's models. A neutral running shoe with a holistic design approach that adapts to the runner's anatomy in motion.

Wrapping the foot with an even softer feel, the engineered mesh upper adds strategic support in targeted areas while leaving some of the fibers more open to improve breathability. The upper also works more closely with the midsole's movement, which creates a smoother stride from footstrike to toe-off. Additionally, the shoe's upper is made with recycled materials to reduce waste and carbon emissions.

- Provides excellent shock absorption
- Gender-specific construction addresses different compression rates
- Engineered mesh upper
- Technology provides lightweight cushioning
- At least 20% of the primary material of the shoe's upper is made with recycled materials to reduce waste and carbon emissions
